8TH ARMY CRACKS NAZI WINTER LINE

RUSSIANS ROLL AHEAD IN SIX SECTORS TODAY

ree Columns in White Russia and Three in Ukraine Advance.

By The Associated Press

SCOW Nov. 30—Russian rolled steadily westward sectors of the long front —three in White Russia and the Ukraine—doggedly ing their way through forests, swamps and plains densely with heavily fortified defense works.

Greatest progress was reported the Zhlobin sector northof captured Gomel, where Constantine Kokossovsky's were converging in a pinmovement on that rail hub fortress guarding the Gomel gap.

Russian communique said army spearheads had capStryeshin, 12 miles south Zhlobin, and had seized 40 ges in a drive from the west and that strategic enemy base.

Another Column Advances

A Reuters dispatch from Moscow said another Soviet column plunged further west 25 miles on of Bobruisk, 35 miles northwest of Zhlobin on the Gomel-Minsk railway.)

Other advances were recorded the Berezina and Pripet river leys west of the Dnieper river, the bulletin said.

Eight hundred Germans were reported killed as the Russians ed forward, stabbing closer the enemy supply system while Nazis steadily retreated toward the old Polish border.

More than 200 miles south, another Russian army launched a renewed drive on the west bank the Dnieper between Kiev and Kremenchug, driving the Germans back eight miles west of Cherkassy, the communique announced.

Pierce Lines at Cherkassy

(Russian forces have pierced the German defense lines at Cherkassy to establish a bridgehead on the Dnieper river and have reduced to less than five miles in width the corridor linking the Nazi garrison within the city and German forces holding the area between Cherkassy and Kremenchug, a Reuters dispatch from Moscow to London said today.)

Other Soviet columns were on the move southwest of Dnepropetrovsk and below Kremenchug. Red army airmen shot down 34 German planes and bombed concentrations of troops and trains at Apostolova, the communique said.

In the bitterly contested Kiev area, Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian army hurled back heavy new German attacks north and west of Zhitomir in the Chernyakhov and Brusilov areas.

The Soviet radio was quoted in a London broadcast as saying that German armored divisions already have been decimated in the Nazi counter-attacks between Zhitomir and Korosten, including divisions from Italy, Norway and Belgium, and the Adolf Hitler SS (Elite) division.")

SPECULATE ON END OF WAR

Current Crop of Peace Rumors Whips Up Talk in Halls of Congress.

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—The current crop of peace rumors has whipped up speculation among members of congress about an early end to the war but several senators in a position to know something about the progress of the fighting agreed today it will be surprising if the Germans are beaten before next summer or even later.

As one exception, however Senator Austin (R-Vt.), ranking minority member of the senate military affairs committee, told this reporter that, without any knowledge of the events, he is inclined to lend some credence to reports the Germans already may have broached peace terms to the allies.

Sees Sudden End

"I believe the war will end suddenly" Austin said, "because I think the minute the German people become convinced they are beaten they will offer peace terms that might be acceptable."

Similarly, Chairman Reynolds (D-N.C.) of the military committee said he did not see how the Nazis are going to stand up much longer under aerial bombardment.

But Senator Lodge (R-Mass.), who saw action in Africa as an Army major and who subsequently visited allied battlefronts on a senatorial tour, saw little likelihood the war could be won before midsummer at the earliest. He said there is bound to be some tough land fighting before the Nazis are beaten.

Predicts Two Years

Chairman Truman (D-Mo.) of the senate war investigating committee predicted it will take a year to crush Germany and that

TOM HARMON SAFE AFTER SECOND CRASH

By The Associated Press

U. S. 14TH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, CHINA, Nov. 30—Tommy Harmon, former University of Michigan All-America football player who twice became a downed U. S. Army air pilot, was returning to base today after being rescued by Chinese following destruction of his fighter craft by Japanese Zeros in a low-level attack on Kiukiang a month ago.

"Glad to report Harmon OKAY and returning to base," a terse message to headquarters from his advanced Lightning fighter base said.

There was no mention of injuries and headquarters said the message probably meant Harmon would be able to return to duty.

Kiukiang is a Yangtze river port southeast of Hankow.

Last April, a bomber Harmon was piloting crashed in a squall over French Guiana in the South American jungles and Harmon and the six-man crew baled out.

By The Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 30—The rejoicing family of Army Pilot Tom Harmon attended a mass of thanksgiving today in celebration of the former All-America football player's second deliverance this year from the dread list of men "missing in action."

Before dawn, his aged parents and a sister went to the same Catholic chapel on the University of Michigan campus where last April they had given prayerful thanks for Harmon's miraculous escape from a bomber crash in South American jungle that claimed the lives of five other crew members.

This time the occasion was word that Tom was "walking out," as a friend described it in a letter home, from a similar adventure in China. He had been missing on a combat mission over Kiukiang since Oct. 30.

"Thank the Lord," Tom's father sputtered joyfully. "It's almost too good to believe, although moms and I never lost faith for a moment."

Mrs. Harmon's eyes were tearfilled as she smiled radiantly and accepted the news with a reverent murmur, "Thank God—again."

Four Marion County Men Suffer Finger Amputations in Series of Accidents

Hospital records today listed a series of minor accidents Sunday involving five Marion men, four of whom required the amputation of all or part of one or more fingers.

Most serious involved Ben Hill, of LaRue, a painter employed at the Marion Metal Products plant on Monroe street, who suffered the loss of two and the first three fingers of the left hand, one joint of the third finger and the nail of the accident occurred about 1 p. m. yesterday while he was alone in a paint booth. It was believed that he slipped on the floor and attempted to break his fall by grabbing onto the frame work of a paint booth fan. Instead of catching hold of the frame his hand was pulled into the fan itself.

Virgil Klingel of 182 North Grand avenue suffered the loss of two joints of the first two fingers of the right hand and one joint of the third finger when his hand was caught in the fan of his truck near his home about 7:30 a. m. yesterday.

About 9 a. m. yesterday Foster Weiser of 222 Orchard street suffered the loss of the tip of his index finger when it was caught between a belt and a pulley at the Defiance Pressed Steel Co. plant, where he is employed as a janitor.

Bennie Withrow, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Withrow of near LaRue, suffered amputation of the fingers and thumb of his right hand yesterday afternoon when his hand was caught in a mechanical corn picker on his father's farm. He was taken to the Marion City hospital for treatment.

In an accident Sunday afternoon David Pugh, 17, of near Marion narrowly escaped amputation of the middle finger of his right hand when a gun he was cleaning at his home accidentally discharged.

Jap Planes Fail To Challenge U. S. Bombers in New Guinea

Australian Troops Close in on Another Base and Yanks Mop Up in Gilbert Islands.

By The Associated Press

Air power that met no challenge in the skies hammered allied drives against the Japanese in New Guinea and the Solomons as American ground forces hunted down the last enemy resistance on Tarawa in the Gilberts.

Supported by low-flying Mitchell bombers Australian troops closed in on Bonga, Japanese outpost on the New Guinea jungle northeast of Satteiberg which they drive captured Nov. 26.

The Australians used tanks as well as the push to iron out a bulge in allied lines.

Farther up the northeast coast of New Guinea, big Liberators attacked Wewak with 94 tons of bombs, and the absence of enemy interception puzzled air officers. At last reports, they said the Japanese had more than 50 fighters in the Wewak area.

Nor did a single Japanese fighter oppose nearly 100 American dive bombers and torpedo bombers attacking enemy installations on the south shore of Empress Augusta bay in support of American forces on Bougainville. Anti-aircraft fire forced down one fighter but the pilot was saved.

Jap Bases Assaulted

Japanese air bases in both sectors have been repeatedly assaulted. Another possible reason for the lack of interception was advanced as the increased respect for the fire power of heavy bombers flying in close formation.

Liberators damaged one warship in an attack on two destroyers and a freighter off the north coast of new Britain, while other bombers and fighters strafed and sank barges along the coasts of Bougainville and New Guinea.

The Navy department announced in Washington that islands in the Gilberts are "being developed according to plan," and that a few enemy stragglers remain in the northern end of Tarawa atoll.

Seventh air force Liberators gave the Japanese no letup with new raids against Nauru and the Marshalls, 350 miles northeast of the Gilberts.

Longer Bombing Needed

At Pearl Harbor, Maj. Gen. Holland McTiere Smith, commander of Tarawa's assault forces said that atoll, where American casualties were heavy, might have fallen at less cost if there had been longer naval gunfire and aerial bombings.

He was quick to add, however, that the overall picture had to be remembered, and "the longer we stay in the area (before assault) the more liable we are to attack by sea, under sea and the air."

Changking made no mention of the fighting in the "rice bowl" area of central China, but announced American aerial support to Chinese ground forces on the Salween river front.

THE MAIN WINTER DEFENSE LINE of the Nazis on the Adriatic end of the Italian front has been cracked by the British, who have moved four miles beyond the Sangro river. Before that, as shown in the map above, the Ghost Fifth Army had driven forward two miles beyond Montaquila as the British Eighth Army extended its bridgehead across the Sangro river, spurred by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's personal request that it "drive the Germans north of Rome."

ADVANCE AFTER 36 HOURS OF HARD FIGHTING

Montgomery's Men Drive Forward Four Miles from Sangro River.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Nov. 30—The British Eighth army has cracked the main Nazi defense line of the German winter on the Adriatic end of the Italian front by driving four miles forward from the Sangro river, allied headquarters announced today.

In 36 hours of continuous day and night fighting Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces captured portions of the vital Sangro ridge northwest of the river and routed the Nazis from the town of Mezzagrogna.

Simultaneously United States units of the allied Fifth army fought their way forward one mile through blistering enemy shellfire to occupy the town of Castelmoyo, northwest of Montaquila.

While clawing up the Sangro ridge, which rises 750 to 1,000 feet above the river valley, the British, New Zealand and Indian troops under Montgomery also widened their bridgehead to 12 miles.

This frontal assault on the enemy's heavily fortified mountain positions was supported by deadly artillery and aerial bombardment, which in itself was almost sufficient to make the Germans' defense system in this section crumble.

Many Prisoners Taken

The advancing British captured numerous prisoners from the German 65th infantry division who were described as "bomb happy" indicating they were shocked and demoralized from the heavy bombing and shelling.

After taking Mezzagrogna the Eighth army hammered away in the direction of Romagnoli at the extreme south end of the ridge and north, Toward Fossadesia at the northeastern end of the ridge.

Farther inland the situation around the second bridgehead across the Sangro river near Archi was reported generally quiet and Montgomery's headquarters gave no intimation whether the enemy's important supply road along the river in that sector had been cut.

On the Fifth army front heavy fighting by the Americans during the past 48 hours continued around the Falcontara mountain, where Castelnuovo was occupied.

Enemy artillery bombardments increased there and on other sectors of the Fifth army front.

Allied aircraft joined in blows at the Germans' mountain entrenchment and other installations and extended their operations to include an air attack on the Yugoslav city of Sarajevo, where the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand and his wife in 1914 touched off the first World War.

Mitchells Hit Sarajevo

American B-25 Mitchell bombers made the Sarajevo raid, hitting an explosives factory, enemy barracks and a transport repair shop.

American Flying Fortresses and B-26s attacked the airport and railroad yards at Grosseto, 80 miles north of Rome, and American Mitchells lay out a pattern bombing of roads, railways and bridges at Giulianova, communications center north of Pescara on the Adriatic coast.

A few hours earlier RAF Bostons made a night attack on harbor installations at Pescara, hitting a railway junction and starting several fires.

The German airforce failed to appear in strength yesterday.

Although the Mitchells raiding Sarajevo sighted eight enemy planes, the Nazis made no effort to interfere and likewise there was no opposition to the bombing of Grosseto.

Conference in Iran, Reuters Report Says

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—Reuters, the British news agency, today received a dispatch datelined Lisbon which said "it is known here definitely" that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and President Chiang Kai-shek have completed a long conference in Cairo and are now enroute to Iran (Persia) to meet Premier Stalin.

An Associated Press dispatch from London said this Reuter dispatch was not distributed by Reuters in Britain. However, it was transmitted through London and reached New York by normal radio transmission.

CHILDREN'S YULE PARTY CANCELLED

Committee Says Families in Position To Provide Treats.

At a meeting of the executive board of the community children's Christmas party committee last evening at the Central fire station it was decided not to hold a Christmas party this year, due to the fact that, with prevailing working conditions, the need for a public party to provide gifts and a treat for less fortunate children does not exist.

The action to cancel the 1943 Christmas party plans was taken after a careful survey had been made by the committee and conferences held with representatives of organizations doing welfare work at Christmas time and school workers.

This does not mean, the board states, that the Christmas party committee will become inactive, it only means that this year it is believed that practically every family in the city will be in a position to provide its own individual Christmas. The business of the committee will be carried on and when and if the need comes

Union County Soldier Wounded in Action

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sanderson of near Richwood have been notified by the war department that their son, Pvt. Walter Sanderson, was wounded in action somewhere in Italy on Nov. 9. The family will be notified later as to his condition, the message stated.

Pvt. Sanderson, 20 years old, joined the armed forces Feb. 4 this year and went overseas in June. Prior to going into service he was employed with the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Army Mounts 75 mm Cannon on Plane for Real "Secret" Weapon

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Hitler's threat to use a secret "reprisal" weapon was answered by U. S. military spokesmen with these disclosures today:

1—The U. S. Army air force has learned how to hoist 75 mm cannon into the skies—a giant plane weapon so potent it already has sunk a Japanese destroyer single-handed.

2—The Navy has developed some ordnance sensations, one so amazing that a foreign scientist labeled it impossible.

The Army said its B-25 Mitchell medium bombers had been equipped with the 75's, first ever to carry such heavy firepower. U. S. bombers have been using 37 mm guns. Russia has had some success with 40 mm. Fighter planes usually carry 20 mm cannon.

The feat got its combat test in the South Pacific. A B-25 so equipped smashed a Japanese air transport, then with five direct cannon hits left a large destroyer sinking, sources said.

The mediums with 75's aboard have been used against land installations and in forays against shipping without impairing their effectiveness at bombing, strafing, or acting as reconnaissance planes, the Army said.

A special recoil mechanism that keeps the heavy cannon from shaking their ship apart when it is fired made the installation possible, North American Aviation Inc., developer of the B-25, conceived the idea, the Army added.

Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, who is leaving his desk as chief of the Navy's ordnance bureau to return to sea duty, said new naval weapons now in use are fully comparable to the German radio-controlled bomb and the German acoustic homing torpedo.

"Our new weapons can be and are kept secret except that the enemy receives full knowledge of their effects," he said.

When the Navy loses a weapon, he added, it usually sinks in the ocean where it can not be retrieved undetected.

GOVERNOR AND WIFE ILL

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 30—Governor and Mrs. John W. Bricker both were ill at home with colds today, and a "break" was anticipated within a matter of hours.

This source, whose name can not be used, said officials had discarded an earlier theory that revenge motivated the triple slayings last Thanksgiving eve and decided finally that the killer acted with the sole intent of exterminating the family.

"The case probably will be solved within 24 hours," the informant said. "It might be sooner."

Sheriff W. H. Isenhower and Prosecutor John B. Hill were working swiftly along this new reasoning 24 hours after county commissioners voted a $2,000 reward for the killer and declined the time to summon outside detectives.

The McCoys—Elmer, 59, his wife Fortest, 61, and their daughter Mildred, 22—were shot to death at their country home "Oak View" Thanksgiving eve.

Sheriff Isenhower and his deputies talked at length with all persons living near enough to the farm to have seen any unusual happening.

"None of these people know any more than they told me Thanksgiving day," the sheriff said.

The farm has been posted against trespassers, hundreds of whom swarmed over it Sunday.

The increases were embodied in a voluntary wage agreement that becomes an amendment to an existing contract which will expire next Aug. 15.

Kernahan of Columbus and Gerald Smith of Marion for the CCC Motor Freight, R. Dalrymple of Mt. EXPECT BREAK IN M'COY CASE

Officials Say Killers Motive Was To Wipe Out Entire Ohio Farm Family.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, C. H., O., Nov. 30—The wealthy McCoy family was killed in a deliberate plot to wipe it out, a spokesman close to Fayette county officials said today, and a "break" was anticipated within a matter of hours.

This source, whose name can not be used, said officials had discarded an earlier theory that revenge motivated the triple slayings last Thanksgiving eve and decided finally that the killer acted with the sole intent of exterminating the family.

Drive for Discarded Clothing To Be Conducted Here Friday

A nationwide collection of discarded clothing for the world's war refugees will be conducted in Marion Friday by the city school pupils, George H. Aiber, county director, announced today.

The one-day collection is being made in connection with the drive to obtain clothing for the home-less people.

Mr. Alber, in making announcement of the collection said "The contribution of usable but discarded clothing to offering people who have seen one day in the hell of war famine will be a real service." The giving of clothing no longer need may mean the life of some man, woman or child who might otherwise die in cold suffering from want of the simplest garments."

He urged that every member of every family take time out to gather up clothing that is no longer needed and turn it over to the city school children, who will conduct the collection Friday.

He asked that residents of the city place discarded clothing on the porches on their front porches before 8:30 a. m. Friday so that children can pick it up on their way to school. Clothing that is not picked up by children enroute to school will be collected later Friday morning by school buses selected by school officials.

With only a few exceptions practically all garments are seriously needed

Here are the types of clothing and apparel NOT wanted: hats, caps, shoes, leather gloves, neckties, garters, rubbers, overshoes, galoshes, slippers, collars, suspenders, sport leather leggings, canvas and rubber boots or shoes, or evening clothes.

"Everything else," Mr. Alber continued, "is welcomed and very much needed by the peoples of Europe and Asia who have been uprooted from their homes by the war."

Material obtained in the collection here will be cleaned by local dry cleaners and then turned over to the salvage division of the war production board for distribution among refugees.

Participation of the city's school population in the drive was approved by both Supt. E. E. Holt of the city schools and Rev. Father William J. Spuckerman of St. Mary Catholic church in cooperation with the county salvage committee. Mr. Alber said school officials throughout the community are cooperating to the extent of taking care of the collection in their specific areas.

Marion's War Housing Center To Be Closed

Marion's War Housing Center, which has been operated at the Marion Chamber of Commerce offices for the last year, will be closed tomorrow.

D. E. Mackelmann of the National Housing Agency office in Cleveland, in deciding on the closing said it was made in view of changes in employment in Marion, obviously because of the closing of the Scioto Ordnance Plant.

The center first was in charge of Grover C. Snyder, who several months ago recommended that his full-time job as housing director in Marion be abolished because of lack of activity. Since July Louis E. Michel, secretary of the Chamber, has handled it on a part-time basis, maintaining a file of applications for rooms, apartments and houses for war workers, and also listing available quarters for landlords.

MAIMED SOLDIERS SAVED BY SURGERY

But Hundreds of Fighters Are Permanently Crippled.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Nov. 30.—Modern battlefield surgery is saving the lives of thousands of badly maimed soldiers and American homes must prepare to receive and care for increasing numbers of permanently crippled men, Col. James I. Martin of Rockford, Ill., surgeon of the Fifth Army in Italy, said yesterday.

A sombre warning to American families that "the people must expect to see the results of the war" came from his headquarters.

"The use by the enemy of booby traps, so-called 'booby traps' and air-exploding bombs is raising the figure of soldiers mutilated and physically wrecked," his statement said.

"While the death percentage from that type of wound is becoming lower due to early surgical treatment by Army doctors near the front lines, the lanching mine detonated when it is stepped on often makes necessary the amputation of one or both legs, and the same agent also causes terrible damage to the face and arms."

13 United States Nurses Missing, Army Reports

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Nov. 30. — Thirteen United States Army nurses have been missing since Nov. 8 when a transport plane in which they were flying from Africa to the east coast of Italy overshot its destination in bad weather.

The last word from the plane was a message received while it presumably was over the Adriatic.

The nurses were attached to an air evacuation unit. The next of kin have been notified.

Ammonia once was distilled from the horns and hoofs of animals and was known as "spirit of hartshorn."

Truck Recapping To Be Ration Free

To encourage a more effective use of recapping service, thereby contributing to tire conservation, OPA is removing from rationing recapping of tires for commercial vehicles with truck-type cameiback, effective Dec. 1.

The action is taken at the request of the U. S. rubber director in view of increased stocks of synthetic rubber being made available. This should aid in preserving tires now on commercial motor vehicles, and incidentally, should lighten the load of overworked ration boards.

The amendment also eliminates all branding requirements for passenger tires and permits the recapping of those branded tires that require this service. Tires turned in last year by the public to the defense supplies corporation, which though too worn to be recapped, were still capable of giving limited service, were branded "emergency" tires and then sold to dealers for distribution to certificate holders. Since practically all these tires have now been distributed, the branding requirement is removed.

Today's revision also permits the sale to a consumer of a tire, which although not suitable for recapping, is usable in its present condition or can be recapped for use.

Navy Uses New Secret Weapons

Ordnance Expert Says Some Devices "Fully Comparable" to Germans' Radio-Controlled Rocket.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The Navy's number one ordnance man [illegible] assured the country [illegible] may say that we have no secret weapons, some "fully comparable to the German radio controlled bomb and accurate guided torpedoes," others even more amazing.

Moreover, these weapons have been in use for many months, said Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, chief of the bureau of ordnance.

The new weapons, Blandy asserted at a press conference, are truly secret, known neither to the American public nor to the enemy. This latter situation, he explained, was made possible by the fact that when a navy loses a weapon it usually goes to the bottom of the ocean where the enemy can't capture and imitate it.

One Labeled Impossible

"We have one development," Blandy said, "that certain foreign scientists labeled impossible, but I can't even disclose its nature."

He emphasized the enormous increase in ordnance production as well as the development of new weapons. As an example, he said the increase in production of torpedoes since the start of the war was 4,000 per cent.

Ranking high in the achievements of the war, Blandy said have been huge strides in anti-aircraft defenses of surface ships. Referring to predictions the big "battle wagons" would disappear after air attacks had sunk some of them, Blandy asserted "far from succumbing, naval ships have not only survived and multiplied but several new types have been developed."

Fire Control

Among the big secrets, Blandy said, are improvements in fire control. With equipment now used on all types of guns, both big and small, it is necessary only to take a sight on the target. All the necessary computation once done laboriously—and slowly—by human [illegible] American [illegible] Japanese [illegible] Blandy replied.

We don't know of any [illegible] However, we are not being complacent."

NOW THAT YOU KNOW THE "REASON WHY," AMERICA NEEDS YOUR CO-OPERATION IN THIS 4-POINT PLAN

I. PRODUCE. The first and most important need is to meet food production goals. This calls for millions of acres to be put under the plow—for more volunteer farm workers—for more victory gardens.

II. CONSERVE. The garbage pail must be starved! Victory gardens must be kept up—cultivated and picked. Food—if not eaten—should be preserved by canning, brining, drying, storing and other methods. Substitute plentiful foods for scarce. Avoid waste.

III. SHARE. Farmers can share their machinery, manpower, seed, fertilizer among themselves. Families who eat in restaurants or who raise their own food and do not actually need some or all of their ration stamps should destroy those stamps. Do not buy it if you don't need it!

IV. PLAY SQUARE. To keep the cost of living down for all of us is one of the most important battle stations we have on food. Food costs can be controlled if everyone will observe top legal prices and never pay more, and give up stamps for all rationed foods.

There's the job for every American—the battle on the home front that is as important to win as the war against the Axis. Remember the four points. Adapt them to your daily living.

Electricity is vital to the war effort—Please use it carefully!

DO YOU WANT AN ESSENTIAL OCCUPATION WITH A POST-WAR FUTURE?

We need a number of men for permanent positions as "mechanical tabulating equipment mechanics" — officially defined by Selective Service headquarters as an essential occupation.

WE are a large, well established manufacturer of office machines and equipment. Our future production is going to war manufacturers and government bureaus. We urgently need men who are mechanically minded — not necessarily with mechanical experience — to keep these essential office machines operating at top speed in war plants and government offices. We teach you everything you need to know about the machines, and we pay you a salary while you are learning. The positions are permanent, with excellent opportunities for advancement.

YOU are a man with a knack for mechanical work, even though you may not be using that knack at present. You are a high school graduate, and U. S. citizen. The armed forces have passed you by, and will continue to do so. You are not doing war work now. You are ambitious, loyal, a good worker, eager to get ahead.

YOU AND WE should get together. Write us a brief confidential letter, telling us about yourself. Give us also your age and phone number. Write today if

ADDRESS BOX 34 THE MARION STAR

P.S. Do you have a friend who should know about this opportunity? We'd appreciate your calling him about it—and so would he!

YOU'VE GOT TO BE GOOD . . .

You'll be up there in good company when you fly with the A.A.F.!

You'll be on the same team with fighters who knocked out the Luftwaffe over Salerno . . . with bombing crews that blasted Schweinfurt and blew Ploesti off the map . . . with hunters who tracked a Jap fleet to the Bismarck Sea, and bagged every ship that flew the red-ball flag.

You'll be up there in the "big leagues" . . . and to make it, you've got to be good . . . and that puts it up to you!

If you think you've got what it takes to fly . . . if you're willing to work long hours, on the ground as well as "upstairs" . . .

Then maybe you, too, can win your wings as Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot . . .

And fly and fight with the A.A.F. . . . . the greatest team in the world!

MEN OF 17 . . . Go to the nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board, see if you can qualify to join the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. If you qualify, you will receive the Enlisted Reserve insignia . . . but will not be called for training until you are 18 or over.

Begin now to prepare yourself, mentally and physically, to be a Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot in the A.A.F. Bone up on math, physics, history, geography . . . all important subjects for a member of the Air Forces. Above all, study hard . . . and keep your mind alert. For the A.A.F. wants your training as an Aviation Cadet to be second to none in the world . . . so that when you win your wings, you'll be the toughest and smartest flyer who ever burned up the sky!

Toughen your body, too. For, as a member of a bomber crew or a fighter pilot, other men will depend on your "staying power," and you will depend on theirs. Meanwhile, see your local Civil Air Patrol officers about taking C.A.P. Cadet training—also see your High School Principal or Adviser about the recommended courses of the Air Service Division of the U. S. Victory Corps. Both afford valuable pre-aviation training.

TO WIN YOUR SILVER WINGS . . .

You'll start your A.A.F. training in one of America's leading colleges (after a brief conditioning period). There, in 5 months, you will be given the equivalent of a year of college training. From the College Training Detachment you will go on to 8 months of full flight training.

When you win your wings as a Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot, you will get an extra $250 uniform allowance . . . and your pay will be $246 to $327 a month.

And after the war you will be qualified for leadership in the world's greatest new industry—Aviation!

See your nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board—or the commanding officer of the College Training Detachment nearest you—for complete details.

Peace Rumors Denied by Secretary of State

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Secretary of State Hull said yesterday the current crop of peace rumors apparently are put out to impair the "vigor" of the allied war effort by creating over-confidence.

In response to a press conference question, "Have you any information that would support rumors that a German peace move is afoot either through the Vatican or other channels?" the secretary replied:

"I think I would be safe in authorizing you to quote me entirely in the negative about such rumors at every day's conference until I notify you to the contrary.

"They are evidently put out most of the time with a view to creating overconfidence among the allies in carrying on the war to a successful conclusion and in that way impairing the whole vigor of the war situation on the allied side."

CIO Protests Firing of Regional Director

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND Nov 30—Regional OPA Director Robert L Williams' dismissal of Rowland D Schell as regional rent executive led to CIO complaints today the action was motivated by efforts to break down rent control in the five-state area.

Richard E Reisinger, president of Cleveland's Industrial Union Council, CIO central body, said he wired protests to OPA Director Chester D Bowles at Washington and Ivan D Cousin, regional OPA administrator in charge of rent control.

Asserting Schell was the man who "helped keep rent under control in the region," Reisinger declared his dismissal from the $6,500-a-year job was a move by certain people to break down rent control."

Schell denied Williams' charges of insubordination.

Act To Retain State Control Over Voting

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 — A group of southern Democrats sought Republican support today in an attempt to revise the servicemen's vote bill to retain state control over the balloting

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) proposed that the military forces distribute and collect ballots printed by state officials with distribution limited to servicemen qualified to vote under laws of their respective states.

Senator Eastland (D-Miss) yesterday denounced the bi-partisan balloting commission plan of Senators Lucas (D-Ill) and Green (D-RI) as a "carpetbag" measure which waives all state eligibility requirements except those of age and residence in permitting uniformed personnel to cast absentee votes.

TAFT AGAIN SEEKS SENATORIAL POST

Makes Four Speeches Before Toledo Groups.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 30—Announcing that he would ... for ... some time been a candidate for ... on the Republican ... to the U. S. Senate, Senator Robert A. Taft made four speeches here yesterday and conferred with GOP Republican leaders. Opinion was expressed by some ... the senator would have no trouble obtaining endorsement for the ... congressional district.

The senator's speeches at the University of Toledo, to the Toledo Rotary club, to the Lucas County Women's Republican organization and to ward and precinct leaders of Toledo and Lucas county, urged an association of nations for the peace after the war.

The senator declared the Fulbright formula offers a federal union plan of nations which he announced as dangerous, fantastic and impractical. He said the British-Russian American super-alliance imposed by Walter Lippmann has many friends but that fundamentally the plan is imperialism.

"The plan for an enforced peace which accords most closely with the ideals of the American republic," he said, "is that for an association of nations to include the united nations and the neutrals and, after a period of probation, the axis nations. It would seek to be protected, he urged, by strong covenants between sovereign nations agreeing to determine their disputes by law and judicial or by arbitration

Bad Coughs Yield Quickly To This Home Mixture

Surprisingly Quick Relief. No Cooking. Saves Money.

Here's a medicine for coughs due to colds, that you mix in your own kitchen. It's so easy to prepare that a child could do it, but once tried, you'll never again be without it.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of very wonderful cough syrup. It's thrifty, too—about four times as much for your money. And children take it willingly, because it tastes so good.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that's surprising. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable agent for soothing throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Citizen-Soldier... Fighting Man!

● He's the finest tank fighter in the world . . . because he grew up at the wheel of an automobile.

He can hit a Jerry with a grenade at 40 yards . . . because he learned how to peg a baseball to second base.

He's a citizen-soldier, a man of peace, who adapted his strength and skill to war. And today, he's going up against the best professional armies and giving them a licking.

We think of the nation's railroad people as "citizen-soldiers" too . . . skilled men and women who were able to adapt their peacetime strength, almost overnight, to war.

When the U-boat menace threatened, the railroads pinch-hit for sea-going tankers and freighters. They absorbed additional loads of passengers and freight from the highways and skyways. And their shops, which build and service locomotives and cars, began also to turn out such fighting equipment as marine tractors, engines for Liberty ships, steel runways for airfields.

Yet so flexible—so adaptable—was America's railroad system, that today, in addition to all this, it is transporting 80% of our military personnel, and nine-tenths of the Army's fighting equipment and supplies . . . without seriously curtailing the movement of essential civilian passengers and freight.

When the "citizen-soldier" comes home from war, he'll be a stronger, wiser man than when he went away . . . capable of doing a bigger job in rebuilding a world of peace.

And the railroads of America . . . when once again they are carrying tractors instead of tanks . . . will be able to perform even greater public service, because of the knowledge and efficiency they gained as the primary supply line of a nation at war.

Japan Lost Again

PROPERLY, Secretary of Navy Knox calls public attention to the heavy casualties sustained by the forces which overcome the Japanese in the attack on the Gilbert Islands. There can be no illusions about what is entailed in this type of operation.

The defenders, like the U. S. Marines who hem the enemy at bay on Wake and Guam, have the advantage of position. They can inflict extremely heavy damage, even though in the end they, themselves, must lose because of their isolated position.

It is proper, also, to realize that the Gilberts were not one of Japan's strong positions. As new attacks are launched on their other outposts—the Marshall Islands next, it may be assumed—they will encounter even stronger resistance.

The public will need to be prepared for the shock of heavy casualties, as Secretary Knox realizes. But along with realization of the casualties, the public also will have realization of something else. Japan is losing its Pacific outposts. At every point on the perimeter of its Pacific empire it is being bled to death by attacks which it can only resist, not repulse. Hard as casualties are to bear under any circumstances, they are infinitely easier to accept when they are the price of victory instead of defeat.

Shadow of a Doubt

IN an article written for OWI to express her personal views on peace aims, Eleanor Roosevelt lists, among other things, a common language "so that no matter where one finds oneself in the future, it will be possible for individuals to exchange ideas and suspicion need never exist."

Necessity, it may be imagined, will continue to spur man's ingenuity in the matter of exchanging ideas. One thinks of thousands of Pacific islanders who are learning how to understand Americans at this moment, and vice versa. One thinks of what is going on wherever civilized men have carried their war to remote places. One thinks of Algiers, where observers say the French are beginning to be irritated by American troops. And of Guadalcanal, where English-speaking Japanese addressed United States marines in their vernacular. Also of Norway, where Norwegian-speaking German fifth columnists helped in the invasion. The possibility of a common language creates a new horizon, but it also creates some doubts. The United States and Britain have a common language, and it has been of inestimable value in the free exchange of ideas. But it has not routed out suspicion. Perhaps if the whole world had a common language, it would be reserved exclusively for manifestations of goodwill, in which event Mrs. Roosevelt would be the first to discard all other tongues.

Confidence in Performance

THE confidence implicit and explicit in the utterances of Admiral Nimitz and Admiral Halsey concerning operations in the Pacific is built on performance. It is vastly different from the bluster which preceded Pearl Harbor and contributed so much to the recriminations which followed that tragic lapse of alertness.

Against obstacles and under handicaps that were theoretically insurmountable, United States fighting forces in the Pacific have stopped the Japanese offensive and gained strong toeholds for the beginning of a campaign to close in on the enemy at his strong points. While it continues to be true that public opinion at home has not been brought abreast of the master strategy of the campaign, that perhaps will be corrected in the months immediately ahead as the grand strategy discloses itself.

The strategy apparently is to reduce the Japanese outposts where necessary and, wherever possible, to go behind them. It calls for the imaginative use of air power to lead the way and be followed in close order by naval and land power to secure bases for the further extension of air power. It is not, perhaps, the strategy that the most extreme devotees of air power would choose, but strategy which makes full use of equipment already available for use.

Its success to date is confirmed not only by the presence of United States fighting men at points where Japan failed to hold its advantage but also by the expressed concern of leaders of the Japanese government. They may understand what is coming far better than the people of the United States.

MAKING US BILLIOUS

Even his severest critics could never deny that Henry Morgenthau has earned a place in history as the man who put the bill in billion. —Boston Herald.

This generation has seen an increasible advance of scientific knowledge, and yet on a scale never known before, ruin is coming to millions and millions of families. News Behind the News

Effect of Air War on Germans Indicated by Nazi Radio Announcements.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 — The Nazis proved some of their government officials lied to Berlin in performing for the latest series of RAF air attacks.

A few went to Vienna, and others to the Dresden area. But the war ministry and the rest of German industry remained to take the terrific rain of destruction.

How decisive the damage will prove to be in a military way was not discussed during the initial series of attacks, but the psychological effect of the whole allied air campaign is evident in the new line taken by the German radio.

Concealing the extent of the damage, the Hitler spokesmen kept constantly shouting to the people, "We will not capitulate," and one gauleiter published a broadcast a declaration that any workers on the home front were "lousy dashes," only possible translation of an unprintable word, the use of which betrays the overwrought effect of the nightly attacks.

Women's Gestapo

But even more significant was the radio announcement that a women's gestapo had been created to stop grumbling among the people. Innkeepers have been ordered also to suppress whispered conversations in their places. The mayor of a Berlin suburb was among several who have suffered executions for listening to foreign radio broadcasts in the last few weeks.

The official propagandists all try to exempt Hitler from blame, saying he never wanted that kind of war (forgetful of what he did to London), that the British cannot keep it up, that certain sections of Berlin were to be rebuilt anyway,—all of which is rather weak.

Japs Weak in Air

War Secretary Stimson's expressed optimism on the war in the Pacific—where the promised major offensive has been launched on all fronts — was founded on the unexpected ease with which we took the Gilbert Islands. Our planes found weak Japanese air resistance there and in the Marshall islands which we have been bombing in preparation for capture.

One aircraft carrier division reported an almost unbelievable score of 46 to 4 in plane casualties of one phase of the Gilbert fight. The ratio throughout the whole Pacific area has been running about 7 to 1 against the Japs in air combat, and increases to 10 to 1 if you consider the number of Jap planes destroyed on the ground.

Effect of Gains

In the [illegible] conception of future progress Stimson apparently had in mind forecasts early advances to the Marshall, from which Wake Island can be made approximately 1,000 miles from Tokyo. In addition, the fall of Japanese airports in Truk, the main Jap air base in the Pacific, would put a much longer range of our next attacks.

The Japs thus far do not seem to have the air force to offer any great resistance to our progress. They should have been expected to prevent their best possible force in the areas already captured.

Cleaning out the ground forces may be a more arduous problem, but at least the advance Jap air base, soon may be thrown back hundreds of miles from our best lines of communication to Australia. It is still a long way to Tokyo.

Frankfurter Decision

Strangest of all legal phenomena is the developing effect of Justice Felix Frankfurter's supreme court decision last March, allowing a confessed Tennessee mountain moonshine murderer to escape from his conviction.

The courts around the District of Columbia now have ruled out confessions in about three cases, one of which involved a murder charge on the same inexplicable ground Mr. Frankfurter laid down in his decision, namely that the prisoner had been kept too long by the police court before he was presented to the magistrate.

In the Tennessee mountaineer case, one of five McNabb brothers confessed on a Friday morning, but, due to some detailed protest among the brothers, the confession was not presented until 2 a. m. Saturday — roughly 14 hours after having been made.

Mr. Frankfurter construed this to be "an unreasonable time," and the courts are now bound by his decision, although no one has attempted to say what is a reasonable time. No doubts were cast on the validity of the confession, which had been accepted by the lower courts.

A Negro who confessed first degree murder on a Saturday here, and could not be presented until 11 a. m. Monday, has been saved from facing his confession in court as one primary result. A bill is now being pushed in congress to over-rule the supreme court — and will be carried through.

House Votes on Subsidy and Tax Bills Seen as Contradictory, Unintelligible.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

ON TUESDAY the house voted about subsidies, and on Wednesday it voted about taxes. Unless congress means to go on record as determined to weaken the existing wartime control of the effects of inflation without putting any better control in its place, the action of the house will have to be considered.

For the action of last week is so incoherent and so confusing that it cannot possibly be the last word by congress on the subject.

No wonder that Senator Taft, Ohio Republican, who will hardly be suspected of being a New Dealer planning a fourth term, has already felt it necessary to break away from the position taken by his party in the house and to seek a more constructive solution.

On Tuesday the house voted to outlaw what it called "consumer subsidy" programs for agricultural products, arguing that the people have lots of money and can afford to pay higher prices for food. The next day, on Wednesday, the house voted against a substantial increase of taxes, arguing that the people now have so little money left that they cannot pay more taxes.

Contradictory Actions

On Tuesday when the [illegible] was under fire, the [illegible] said that the billion dollars for [illegible] subsidies must not be passed on to future generations to pay. On Wednesday, when the subject was taxes, the house voted to pass on to future generations an extra eight billions of debt rather than save that amount of taxes now.

The treasury called for an additional 2,500 millions of excise taxes on articles of general consumption. The house was willing to vote only 1,338 millions.

The details are interesting. The treasury wanted to get an additional 558 millions of taxes on alcoholic drinks; the house voted only 460 millions. The treasury wanted another 185 millions on tobacco, the house would not vote any new tobacco tax. The treasury wanted to collect another 367 millions on soft drinks, candy and chewing gum; the house would vote none. The treasury wanted another 181 millions on jewelry; the house cut this down to 82 millions.

Now if we are going to tax consumption, which all who favor a sales tax agree is necessary to discourage inflationary spending, [illegible] the decision to [illegible] tax [illegible] the consumption of [illegible] but to leave [illegible] and jewelry.

But the house, which on Tuesday did not object to taxing the poor [illegible] vegetables, was on Wednesday opposed to raising substantially the price of cigarets, cigars, whisky, gin, beer, wine, soft drinks, candy, chewing gum, and jewelry.

The position of the house on subsidies is so shot through with self-contradiction that it is not intelligible. It did not outlaw any subsidy used "to support prices." It outlawed only subsidies which are designed to protect the consumer against rising prices.

Issue at Stake

The idea that the house was voting against what we have been told is the immoral, uneconomic, un-American, wasteful, inflationary use of public funds for subsidies is, therefore not true. What on earth was it voting against? It was supposed to be voting against "consumer subsidies."

This means, presumably, subsidies like that for butter, bread and part of the meat subsidy, which are designed to give the consumer these necessaries of life at a somewhat lower price than the prices paid for them to the producers and processors.

The larger part of the subsidies outlawed by the house are of this type: for potatoes, truck crops, corn, hay, feed wheat, fluid milk, onions, lard, sugar beets, canned vegetables and that part of the meat subsidy paid to nonprocessing slaughterers who would otherwise be closed down.

Subsidies of this type, designed to induce greater production, to make up differentials between one section of the country and another, and between low-cost and high-cost producers, certainly inure to the benefit of the consumers. But surely that is not an objection to them unless it is the view of the majority of the house that subsidies are desirable if they raise prices and are vicious if they stabilize.

The action of the house on subsidies and on taxes cries out for reconsideration. The whole subject, the most critical on our home front, needs to be subjected to much more informative and searching reporting and interpretation by the press and the radio than, owing to the drama of the war news, it has as yet had.

And then when the facts and the issues have become better understood by all of us, the subject needs a more thorough debate in the senate than it got in the house.

"Economical" Bomber Losses

By Herman R. Allen

Washington Correspondent.

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Reports of bombing raids over Europe frequently say that so-and-so many of our planes were lost but that this was within the five per cent generally considered economical.

Just how this is calculated is a mystery to aviation experts here. In the first place, it is never disclosed—at least not for some time—how many of our bombers take part in a raid. Any figure in any report coming from the other side is just somebody's guess. In the second place, why is five per cent economical in any given case?

Back in the days of the Blitzkrieg over London it was estimated that the Germans could afford to lose 10 per cent of their planes every night. Intelligence reports indicated that German factories could replace losses at that rate, at that time. So, for lack of a better figure, 10 per cent was commonly used as the rate at which any airforce could afford to lose bombers on any raid.

Later it was disclosed that during the first few months that the British got under way in raiding Germany the RAF lost about five per cent and that this was economical at that time. How much higher a percentage might have been economical was not stated, but the five per cent figure seems to have been generally adopted as a standard.

The experts here don't hold with that. The only standard you can apply, they say, is whether the mission is accomplished. If the objective is super-important, it might be worthwhile (from the coldly military point of view) to sacrifice every plane.

Arnold Assesses Losses

General Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air Forces, explained something about it in a recent press conference. Referring to the raid last June on the Huls synthetic rubber plant, he said:

"Rubber made in that plant was just about 17 per cent of their rubber output. We figured that they lost about three months' production as a result of the damage. ...We lost 16 heavy bombers, but what are 16 heavy bombers when you deny them the production of that much rubber?"

General Arnold continued with an assessment of the raid on Regensburg, in which 23 bombers were lost:

"We were prepared to take our losses, but it was worth it because that plant produced 200 ME-109s (a type of German fighter) a month, 40 per cent of the total production of Messerschmitt 109s and 16 per cent of all the single engine fighters. Now that is out. They are trying to rebuild it, but before they can rebuild it—they can't do it in two or three months—they will have lost some 500 Messerschmitts....

"This plant, in our dollars, cost $46,000,000. And if you want to put dollars on it, I will tell you that those 23 bombers we lost cost $11,000,000. So we destroyed four times as much as the bombers lost."

"Economical" Loss

The point is that 23 bombers may seem like a terrific loss, but the mission was accomplished, therefore the loss was economical."

On the other hand, General Arnold pointed out: "War is always the most uneconomical thing in the world. If you are going to start playing with dollars, you better not go to war."

Regardless of all this, it is obvious that there must be a rate of loss above which air operations cannot be considered economical. It's not based on dollar value of planes, but on the rate of replacement, speed of crew training, importance of targets, distance of targets and a lot of other factors.

You can be sure it is one of the last things the War Department will ever make public—if it has ever actually pegged the figure.

Whatever the rate may be, it is important to remember that you can't apply it to any one raid. It must be averaged out for all expected operations over a long period of time—not a month, not a year, but the duration of the war. You can easily see why. A mission to bomb a steel plant, for instance, would not be worth many losses because the Germans have plenty of steel. But a party like the Huls raid or the attack on the Schweinfurt ball-bearing plant might be worth almost any loss.

It is estimated that the United States could produce about 4,400,000 barrels of oil a day.

"Hide the lamb chops! I love having her fawn over me for special favors!"

Three Short Cheers

Whenever a Washington Jock Ditches a "Press Conference" That Is Real News—at Last.

By DAMON RUNYON

I MUST heartily applaud the action of one of the government officials in Washington, a Mr. Fly, in discontinuing his press conferences on the ground they were uninteresting and unimportant. He said reporters asked tedious questions.

I think nearly all press conferences are an unmitigated bore, including that of President Roosevelt, and should be discontinued at once as regular affairs. A press conference should be called only when news of the greatest importance is to be announced.

The term press conference is a misnomer, anyway. A conference is supposed to be a formal meeting for deliberation and consultation on some official matter. The so-called press conference is nothing of the sort. Reporters are summoned to an august presence and handed a few grains of information of no great moment. While they may ask questions, they certainly do not participate in any deliberations and consultation.

I think press conferences tend to destroy reportorial initiative. A reporter ought to go out and get his news on his own hook without waiting to have it passed out to him at a press conference, usually with restrictions. When he gets it himself he can use it without restriction, at least when there is any real news involved.

THE press conference has reached a stage where the most astounding nonentities are holding them. Small-caliber officials, hangers-on and other inconsequential jobbers of every kind are calling press conferences, and the surprise to me is the press bothers with some of them. For that matter, it is a surprise to me the press bothers with many of the officials in Washington who call press conferences.

As a reporter, I made it a point to avoid press conferences because I learned that too much was said at them that was "off the record." To this day whenever a man starts to tell me something and prefaces his remarks with that "off the record" business, I stop him and tell him nothing is "off the record" with me if it is news. If he does not care to have his information published, or even repeated, he should keep it to himself.

One fellow in public life who ought to abolish that "off the record" thing is the leading contender at this time for the Republican nomination for president, Wendell Willkie. He is the greatest "off the record" man alive. He even holds "off the record" press conferences. Any reporter who attends one of those is remiss in his duty to his newspaper.

IF a reporter knows in advance he is going to hear an "off the record" statement, he ought to remain away and get the news second hand so he can publish it without compunctions of conscience, because as even Willkie must know everything he says is quickly passed around by worth of mouth.

I think it is unfair for any public figure to call a press conference and then tell the boys that anything said is "off the record."

I have come to the conclusion the press is not morally obligated to respect that designation when the public figure wastes the time of reporters by calling them together, then asks them to withhold from the public the news they are paid for getting.

Jim Farley used to be a great "off the record" man when he was in public office, only his pet phrase was "in this room." But I always had a suspicion that Jim usually told in presumed confidence exactly what he wanted to get in the newspapers, knowing a secret related to a number of human beings at once was bound to reach the public prints, yet in a way that could not be traced to his responsibility.

Maybe that is Mr. Willkie's "off the record" idea, too.

Map Happy

By Truman Twill

They have a map on the kitchen wall so they can follow the progress of the war during breakfast and they keep a handful of maps on the bedside table to keep track of war news when they have retired.

They have supplemental maps in serial form and last Christmas they gave themselves a globe, with a system for keeping it up to date by pasting on revised sections. They know how many railroads run through Zhitomir and [illegible] time it is in New Caledonia when the [illegible] whistle blows back home.

There is a map of Europe on the wall of the living room and a drawerful of maps to settle discussions arising in the course of the evening. They know the Italian peninsula without looking, all the way from the Strait of Messina to the valley of the Po river, and the Gilberts and Marshalls are as familiar as the wrinkles in their own hands.

The population of Kiev before the war is on the end of their tongues. They can rattle off the topographical features of Crete at the drop of a hat. They know how much power was generated at Dnepropetrovsk, the airline distance from Tokyo to Paramushiro Jima and the effect of the Kamchatke current on meteorological conditions in the Aleutians.

Burma is an open book. The main railroad groups of the Pacific roll off their tongues like the names of way stations on a commuters' line. They can locate the Atlas mountains without stopping to think twice. Alice Springs is just south of Tea Tree Well in Australia, and they could steer a ship through the Midway islands as like finding their way downstairs in the dark.

Baedeker had nothing on them when it comes to calling off the location of cities and points of interest in Germany. They never think the Firth of Forth is west and the Firth of Clyde is east. They sneak up on the Riviera through the Ligurian sea with the easy familiarity of a fish in their own bowl. They know how to spell Bulgaria and can name all the Alps.

But don't ask them to bound their own state or name the railroads running through their home town. Don't expect them to know the name of the street their acquaintances live on or depend on them to tell anyone how to get there by the closest way.

Don't be surprised if they fumble the population statistics on four out of five nearby towns and locate public buildings on the wrong corners. They are just a couple of map-happy Americans trying to keep track of their own national interests and never had time to understand the lay of the land in their own backyard.

So They Say—

Nineteen forty-four is going to be a year on the military and domestic fronts must be unity of purpose and action in matters pertaining to national welfare and international relations, so we may bring about the kind of eternal peace that will be accompanied by a better life.—CIO President Murray.

Hitler Attempts New Way To Whip Up Nazi Spirits

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

There is a significant relationship, it seems to me, between the unexplained publication of Hitler's nine-day-old scare talk to 2,000 young Nazi officers and the current rumors in London that Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin are about to issue a world-rocking declaration which may involve a demand for Germany's surrender.

The fuehrer's address bears the earmarks of being an attempt to whip his followers into line with the tale that they are doomed if they capitulate to the allies. His talk was made just before the royal air force began its all-out destruction of Berlin, and Propaganda Minister Joe Goebbels probably thought the terrors of the bombardment would lend point to his master's highly cynical mood. Also, Berlin insists that the big three are already meeting in Cairo.

One point Hitler made was that "the nation which loses this war will cease to exist."

Shrewd Ruse by Hitler

That certainly is true, and it has an ominous sound, especially when the bare fact is stated without explanation,—a shrewd ruse which Hitler appears to have employed. The third reich is due to disappear. The German nation politic will be wiped out—for a fresh start.

That's far from being as harsh as it looks at first glance, however. What it really means is that Hitler's own goose is cooked and that his regime is to be destroyed. The allies have no intention of hamstringing the German race. The German people will be permitted to create a new government and to work out their own destiny—provided they keep to the straight and narrow path and avoid further entanglements with Nazism and Prussian militarism.

Hitler himself has had no intention of according conquered nations any such privileges. The voice of Nazism long ago announced in no uncertain terms that the vanquished peoples were to be made to serve the master race. Their territories were to be absorbed by the reich.

One of the most remarkable passages in the master gangster's address was this: "As so often in the past, so today providence will bestow no gifts on our nation in its struggle for freedom and its future."

Well, that's a hot one, especially coming from an anti-Christ. The Nazi chief certainly can't have any kick coming at getting no divine help, and to give him credit he apparently didn't complain. He not only has broken the laws of God but has disavowed providence, and literally has set himself up as a messiah for the German people to worship. That sounds fantastic; but it's a fact.

Under those circumstances you wouldn't think Herr Hitler could expect much help from heaven. Still, that's a question this column approaches with great diffidence. I can only fall back on boyhood teaching of the Scotch porridge type, which was that right would win in the long run. That's the reason the fuehrer is losing this war, and it's the reason even his allies won't stick with him—he hasn't given them a righteous cause for which to fight. Brigandage is no inspiration for civilized peoples.

Finally Hitler tried to throw fear of Russia into his hearers. He declared that if the allies won "then the barbarities of the steppes would sweep across the continent and destroy it as the base and source of human culture."

The Nazi world-beater really has something there — provided we eliminate the bitter and unjustifiable talk of barbarities and destruction of culture, and consider the basic thought which he has in mind, namely that Russia is going to dominate the European continent after the war. This column has been saying that for months, and I could write you a book on the politico-economic-military aspects of the situation to prove it.

What Hitler recognizes—and it means his personal doom—is that a vast new power is being unleashed in Russia. The Soviet has made it clear, however, that it has no desire to see Germany destroyed, although the Nazi chief and his regime must go.

UNRRA LAUNCHES WAR RELIEF PLAN

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 30 — The actual work of feeding, sheltering and shepherding the millions who will be left in the wake of the war machines was begun today with meetings of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

They were at work a week ahead of schedule, due to the unexpected speed with which delegates from 43 nations able to come to an agreement which was climaxed yesterday by final adoption of a policy which will govern the expenditure of $2,000,000,000 to $2,500,000,000 for the relief and rehabilitation of the war zones.

Delegates arrived at these agreements on policy.

1. There must be no political use of relief supplies, and no discrimination among those who received them, whether for race, creed, color, or political belief.

2. Nations who have not been invaded will footh the bill, but those European nations with foreign exchange balances, or with income producing colonies, will pay for all the relief given them.

3. The axis countries—Germany and her satellites—will be expected to pay not only for relief work done in their areas, but nations which they have looted will be permitted to search their caches for treasures removed.

4. UNRRA can do nothing inside any country without the consent of the country and all the war-weary people of Europe must get absolutely fair treatment during the relief period, whether the governments have gold balances to expend, or not.

CHINESE EDUCATOR SPEAKS IN DELAWARE

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., Nov. 30—The winning of the war is not just around the corner, for there are two corners—Japan and Germany—Dr. Y. C. Yang, former president of Soochoe university, told a lecture audience at Ohio Wesleyan university last night.

"Asia is America's second front, whether we refer to the present war or the future peace. . . . "America and China have a common mission and a common destiny in the Pacific, and there can be no permanent world order until Japan's military ambitions are crushed."

Dr. Yang said China is not getting weaker. "They are making some progress," he declared, "but need outside help before Japan becomes firmly entrenched."

STIFF PUNISHMENT GIVEN THREE ON THEFT CHARGES

$200 Fines and Workhouse Terms Ordered for Youths.

Frances Hickman, 18, of 611 Silver street, Francis Martin, 18, of 191 Davids street and William Saunders, 19, of 191 Fies avenue, appeared in municipal court yesterday and pleaded guilty to a charge of petty larceny and were fined $200 and costs and 30 days in the Columbus workhouse by Judge Hazen.

The charge was filed by Joe Aranoff of Saunders Junk Yard on Davids street following a burglary the previous week when animal skins and four recapped automobile tires were stolen. Entry was gained by going over the roof and through a boarded window on the second floor. A fourth youth, age 16, was arrested Saturday at approximately the same time and was turned over to the detention home. He was scheduled to appear before Judge Oscar Gast, for a hearing in juvenile court today. All the boys have been involved in trouble previously. Saunders has been on probation after being involved in an accident about a year ago while driving a stolen car. The other three have appeared before Judge Gast in juvenile court for mail charges.

moved by the daughter before she herself was killed.

Previously, there had been some belief the daughter had come home, found her mother lying on the porch, and turned her body out of the blood in which it was lying.

"The absence of blood on the dead girl's hands," the coroner said, "leads me to believe she had never touched her mother's body, and there is some doubt if she ever saw it.

"However, there is no doubt that someone—possibly the murderer—moved that body. If we knew why it was moved, we might have the answer to this crime.

Dr. McDonald declared he thought the woman already was dead or dying when the final four shots were fired into her body—one into the stomach from such close range the flesh was powder-burned.

Then, the coroner said, the body was turned on its side.

Admitting he was no nearer a solution than he was last Thursday, the sheriff said, "in a case like this something might happen any minute," but added he and Fayette county authorities were just about "out of suspects."

EIGHTH AIR FORCE RAIDS WEST GERMANY

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 30 — U. S. 8th air force heavy bombers struck targets in western Germany in daylight today, setting a record for 11 major raids for one month's heavy operations from bases in Britain.

Following on the heels of last night's RAF Mosquito bomber raid on the same general area, the American heavies were escorted by U. S. RAF, Dominion and allied fighters during their mission.

The four-engined American bombers exceeded by one the previous record of 10 operations set in July and equaled in September.

The announcement of the new big spree of strikes against Germany came in a terse communique which was issued simultaneously with the report of the RAF attack on Berlin.

NEW SPEED RECORD SET BY LIBERATOR

By The Associated Press

MONTREAL, Nov. 30 — The trans-Atlantic air speed record from Montreal to Britain was beaten yesterday by Capt. Richard Allen, an Australian member of British Overseas Airways Corp. which operates the North Atlantic ferry shuttle service for the RAF transport command.

He flew a Liberator bomber 3,100 miles non-stop from Montreal to a British airport in 11 hours and 35 minutes—21 minutes faster than a record established seven weeks ago by a Lancaster bomber piloted by Capt. M. B. Barclay of Perth, Scotland. Capt. Allen's average ground speed was 275 M. P. H.

The aircraft carried a maximum "all-up" load of 56,000 pounds and its freight included Christmas mail for Canadian service men and women in Britain and the Mediterranean war zone.

Your response was magnificent. War industries continued their production of armaments.

This season the situation is far more serious. We know now that it will be necessary to come to you several times asking this cooperation. The frequency and duration of these conditions as well as the degree to which you will be asked to curtail natural gas will depend upon two factors. One is the severity of the weather. The other is the amount of gas which we are urging you to save now and throughout the winter on the regular conservation program.

It is possible that the call will come to you in December. Likely it will not be until January, but certainly by February. United States Army officials and the Utilities Division of the War Production Board were high in their praise of your cooperation last March. We've told them that you could be counted upon, not once, but as many times as necessary this winter. Please be ready when the call comes. Meanwhile, save all possible gas in your everyday uses to help make the conditions this winter less severe.

Some 40 suggestions for saving gas in your home or place of business are found in this folder. Ask for your free copy at our office.

Basketball Season Hits Full Stride

Since the selection of our state prep football squad is all that's left of old man Autumn's, football for 1943, fans in this area are concentrating on basketball which comes into its own this week.

A flock of games are scheduled this week, most of them for Friday night. Gaining top billing will be the Marion Harding and Delaware Willis clash at Tyndall A. Enson gym here Friday night and the Marion St. Mary's-Harpster setto the following night.

Friday's encounter will be the first on the 1943-44 schedules for both Delaware and Dewey Boyer's Harding Presidents, again vying for a high position in the North Central Ohio conference. For the St. Mary Irish, the Harpster game will be their second of the campaign. Coach Lane McGrath's local parochials launched their 19-game season with a 64 to 21 Thanksgiving eve victory over Cardington's Morrow county team. Harpster has two victories to its credit.

Also of considerable interest to cage addicts in this vicinity will be the second round of games in the 12-team Marion county league, which opened its schedule last Tuesday night with five contests. Heading the list of the six games will be the LaRue vs. Claridon tilt on the former's floor. LaRue is the defending Marion county champion and Claridon ran away with titlists honors in the 1941-42 season.

Other games in the county league will be: Green Camp at Waldo, Prospect at Kirkpatrick, Agosta at Pleasant, Morral at Martel, and Caledonia at Meeker.

Results of last week's games in the county loop were: Kirkpatrick 27 Green Camp 26, Morral 52 Waldo 22, Caledonia 26 Prospect 23, Agosta 29 Martel 21, and Claridon 36 Meeker 5.

The Harding Presidents probably will be in for a tough evening against the Willis Black Panthers Friday night at the Edison gym. Some of the members of last year's Delaware team which was barely edged by Harding, 27 to 24, are back to compete on the court against the Presidents. Among these are Clark Elliott and Bruce Cowgill, regulars on last season's outfit, which also was defeated by Harding in a semi-final engagement in the Central District tournament.

Local cage followers will be watching with decided interest the fortunes of this year's President five, which is definitely a question mark. Six lettermen from last year's team, Stew Young, Chuck Fazio, Elvin Beach, Rex Kilbourn, Fritz Guy and Bob Virden, will be here but the rest of the team is untried in varsity competition. Friday's game will be more or less an experiment for Coach Boyher. Therefore, don't be surprised if the locals drop their initial start.

Other games in this area this week include:

N. C. O. LEAGUE

Crestline Cagers Look Ahead To Good Year, 40 Trying Out

This is one of a series of articles about high school basketball teams in this section of the state, based on information drawn from the coaches.

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

Don't bother to reserve a section of the coaches' mourning bench for L. L. Hill of Crestline High school because he doesn't have much to beef about when it comes to the 1943-44 prospects of his basketball team.

His Crestline Railroader cagers are prepping for a successful season, in every sense of the word. Moreover, it doesn't look as if their 16 regular season foes will offer much of an argument and blast these high expectations to smithereens.

Crestline High school boys, 40 strong, answered Coach Hill's summons for basketball try-outs a few weeks back. Six of these were varsity lettermen and many more had previous experience in reserve and junior high school competition.

From that brief preview of cage personnel, it appears that the Crestline outfit has the material for a good season. Futhermore, the Railrooders have an extra incentive to go through a victorious cage season and oddly enough, it doesn't pertain to basketball but instead to football. This fall, the Crestline grid squad, also coached by Hill, was victimized in eight of nine starts, winning only from Mt. Gilead in the season opener. Reports have it that Crestline is out to compensate for all football losses. C.H.S. fans think their pride and joy in the cage sport has the material to accomplish that very feat.

The lettermen, who will be the generators of the Crestline cage offensive are Dick Arter, Milton DeJean, Richard Emmer, John Poffenbaugh, Don Simmermacher, and Robert Straka.

Other boys who are said to have the best chance to gain regular berths are Tom Arter, Robert Hart, Edward Marshall, Bill Mayer, Robert Noider, James Obermiller, Ronald Swartz, Don Winemiller, and Bob Waldbauer.

Big factor in any success which Crestline might enjoy this season will be speed. In height, the railroaders are just average.

Hill has been associated with Crestline scholastic athletics for the past five years but only this season stepped into the role of head football and baketball mentor. He succeeds Merle Hutson, who had been head Crestline coach for 11 seasons. Hutson was inducted into the Army last summer and is now stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Hill attended Ohio and Ohio State universities. His assistant is Cleo Donaldson, who is a former Bowling Green university athlete.

The 1943-44 Crestline schedule follows:

Dec. 3—Shelby, at home.
Dec. 10—Willard at home.
Dec. 14—Mansfield Madison, at home.
Dec. 17—Open.
Dec. 21—Marion St. Mary, away.
Dec. 23—Galion, away.
Jan. 4—Bucyrus, away.
Jan. 7—Tiffin Calvert, at home.
Jan. 14—Upper Sandusky, at home.
Jan. 18—Galion, at home.
Jan. 21—Open.
Jan. 28—Mt. Gilead, away.
Feb. 2—Ontario, at home.
Feb. 4—Upper Sandusky, away.
Feb. 11—Tiffin Calvert, away.
Feb. 15—Bucyrus, at home.
Feb. 18—Mt. Gilead, at home.
Feb. 25—Marion St. Mary, at home.

A. T. Enoch, Crestline athletic manager, is seeking opponents to fill the two open dates on the schedule. Any interested schools are asked to contact Mr. Enoch.

O. S. U. Places Bill Willis on All-Star Team

By DAVE HOFF
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—The most unusual Western conference All-star football team in history—including for the first time a freshman, a player who was performing in his fourth year of varsity competition, and another who made the team last year but representing a different school—has been selected for The Associated Press by Big Ten coaches.

The conference's three powerful V-12 teams—Purdue, Michigan and Northwestern—grabbed seven places on this 1943 All-Star squad, but the "have-not" schools like Indiana, Minnesota and Ohio State took their share of glory, too.

First Team Choices

This is the list of players who completely dominated in the voting, placed in positions assigned them by a majority of the coaches:

Ends: Herb Hein, Northwestern, and Pete Pihos, Indiana.

Tackles: Paul Mitchell, Minnesota, and William Willis, Ohio State.

Guards: Richard Barwegen and Alex Agase, both of Purdue.

Center: Fred Negus, Michigan.

Quarterback: Robert Hoernschemeyer, Indiana.

Halfbacks: Otto Graham, Northwestern, and Tony Butkovich, Purdue.

Fullback: Bill Daley, Michigan.

Thus Purdue, conference co-champions with Michigan, took three places, Michigan, Indiana and Northwestern two apiece, and Minnesota and Ohio State one each.

Hoernschemeyer, actually a halfback but liked so well by the coaches that many of them listed him at quarterback to make room for Graham, Butkovich and Daley in the backfield, is the first freshman ever to appear on this annual honor group because this is the first season that yearlings have been eligible for Big Ten play.

Daley had played three years at Minnesota before being transferred to Michigan's V-12 unit last summer so this made his fourth season on Big Ten gridirons. Incidentally, two years ago as a Gopher junior, he rated this all-star team but failed to repeat in 1942 because he was handicapped by injuries.

Negus Only Repeater

Negus, the only repeater from the 1942 team, was Wisconsin's varsity center then, but, like Daley, played with Michigan's V-12 assemblage this year.

Graham, a brilliant performer for Northwestern for three years but never previously named to the all-conference team, received unanimous first team support from eight coaches, the ninth not having seen the V-5 student perform this season. Five listed him as a left halfback and three as a quarterback, so he was placed at the former position which moved Hoernschemeyer to quarter.

Butkovich and Daley, too, were virtually unanimous selections. Although both are fullbacks, every coach but one thought each deserved a place on the honor team and Daley received more designations as a fullback. Neither player finished the season, being transferred by the Marines at the end of October.

Fifty-one players from eight of the nine football-playing schools drew votes. Michigan and Purdue tied with 10 nominees apiece.

Souders Mentioned

Included on the honorable mention list of the Western conference all-star team is Cecil Souders of Bucyrus, who starred at end for Ohio State's under-manned Buckeyes this year. Souders, one of Coach Paul Brown's most dependable performers this season, held down an end post in magnificent style, averageed 40 yards in handling most of the Buck punting assignments and received enough aerials to establish himself offensively in the Buck picture. As an end on the Bucyrus team in 1936 Souders was selected on the second All-N.C.O. league team.

Notre Dame Still Is Top Team

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—Notre Dame remains the top football team in the country, despite its 19 to 14 loss to Great Lakes, but its popularity took a drastic cut.

Eighty-six of the 131 sports experts, voting in the final Associated Press poll of the season, marked the Irish No. 1 on their ballots. The remaining 45 voters were definite in their opinions that the loss had robbed the Frank Leahy machine of much of its glamour. Some dropped the Irish as low as seventh, in contrast to the poll of three weeks ago when Notre Dame established a record by snaring every first-place ticket.

As it was, however, the Irish finished with 1,259 points to take over the mythical national championship in succession to the 1942 Ohio State eleven.

Not only did Notre Dame's loss cost it heavily in points but it lifted the Great Lakes aggregation from 21st to sixth place and made the Iowa Pre-Flight, Irish victim No. 9 by a 14 to 13 count, a strong runnerup to the South Bend stalwarts.

The Seahawks grabbed 12 first place votes and a total of 1,028 points—only 231 less than the total compiled by Notre Dame.

The leading teams, determined on a basis of 10 points for each first place ballot, nine for second, etc., (first place votes in parenthesis):

Southworth Takes Play Away from Minor League Row

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 — Bully Joe Kid Southworth popped up with some pleasant words at the St. Louis Cardinals today as a shot at the aim to the major league side of the winter baseball meetings last when it appeared the magnates were going to have all the fun with a red-not "revolution."

This minor-league rebellion was [illegible] up in an organized move against the reelection of William G. Bramham as a fourth-term boss. Frank J. Shaughnessy, president of the International league, already was up as a "dual candidate"—sponsored by his own league.

Into this picture Billy the Kid stepped with a surprisingly big [illegible] for a guy who has lost four members of a National league championship cast to Uncle Sam since the 1943 season ended.

Bill appears somewhat proud of the fact that he doesn't have to holler for help from outside the Cardinal family. He not only is surprisingly backward about doing any trading this winter, but he can also come close to naming his lineup for the 1944 season right now.

Uncle Sam has put the finger on pitcher Alpha Brazle, outfielder Harry Walker, catcher Walker Cooper and second-sacker Lou Klein in recent days, and may yet snatch one or two others, like Mort Cooper.

But the way Southworth rattled off the replacements — "So," he shrugged, "we have a kid named George Dockins coming up from Columbus to take Brazle's place as our left-hand pitcher, and Ted Wilks from Columbus and Blix Donnelly from Rochester and Al Barlick from Sacramento to throw 'em.

"For catchers we have Tom Heath from Columbus behind Ken O'Dea, and to take Klein's place at second there's Emile Verban from Columbus. Now, understand me, we don't have Al Schoendienst from Rochester yet."

Schoendienst is rated the best looking minor league second baseman-shortstop of the year, and the Cards can probably haul him up any time—but up to right now they don't have him.

CORN CEILING RAISE URGED FOR CHICAGO

Senatorial Group Moves To Ease Feed Shortage.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 — Senators [illegible] today [illegible] ease feed [illegible] corn [illegible] age [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] corn, [illegible] on [illegible] as a [illegible] the [illegible] feed [illegible].

Senate Beet Republican [illegible] Nebraska, chairman of the [illegible] subcommittee [illegible] a dozen [illegible] state senators and [illegible] officials [illegible] he thought the ceiling price [illegible] should [illegible] be raised to between $1.20 and $1.20 to induce midwestern corn farmers to move their surplus stocks.

Reed estimates a surplus of between 200 and 300 million bushels of corn might thus be brought into the livestock feed market, making it unnecessary for the commodity credit corporation to import [illegible] from 75,000,000 and 80,000,000 bushels of grain from Canada for feed purposes, at least until next spring.

"I'm not recommending any specific increase in the price, but the senators with whom I have discussed the matter are agreed that some increase is needed if farmers are to sell their corn," Reed said. "If the price were raised to between $1.20 and $1.25 they could get as much for their corn and grain as they could by moving it to hogs."

HEAVY BUYING SENDS WHEAT UP TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 — Buying by commercial and milling interests, stimulated by announced federal flour subsidies and sizeable government purchases scheduled for the week-end, carried December and May wheat futures into new high ground today. Rye prices were mixed and closed weak.

Buying of what at first centered on the December delivery, but demand shifted to the deferred deliveries as a result of reports of a possible poor winter wheat crop in the southwest. At times the December delivery developed relative weakness due to profit taking and uncertainty over international developments.

STOCKS STEADY AFTER DECLINE

Some Leaders Hit New Lows for a Year or Longer Today.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Stocks steadied in today's market after a smattering of new lows for the year or longer had been recorded for leaders.

Many potential purchasers still were awaiting expected big foreign news but bidding cropped up in utility preferreds and specialties after a downward opening and there were scattered substantial recoveries near the fourth hour.

Commitments were reinstated here and there on further thinning that the list, having tumbled to an 8-months' bottom had discounted a lot of bearishness over post-war economic confusion.

Touching low figures for 1943 before receiving support were Bethlehem Steel, Douglas Aircraft and United Aircraft. Gains of 1 to 3 points were scored for senior stocks of Electric Power & Light and American Power & Light and common issues of Allied Mills and American Distilling. Southern Pacific improved along with Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Steel and Chrysler.

At the conclusion of November it was not overlooked The Associated Press 60-stock average was off nearly four points for the period, sharpest set-back for any month this year.

MORE AVIATION GAS REFINERIES NEEDED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30—Pilot demands of American war planes pounding the enemy have become so great that building of aviation gasoline plants must top the nation's war construction program, military and oil experts said today.

The assertions were made at a meeting announcing the Standard Oil Company of Ohio is constructing an $8,500,000 aviation gasoline plant at its No. 1 refinery here.

"The Army and Navy wants the building of aviation gasoline plants to be the country's No. 1 war construction program, so vital is the need for high-octane fuel," said W. T. Holliday, Sohio president.

He added that 70 aviation gasoline plants are under construction throughout the country, 80 per cent of them financed by the petroleum industry.

Output of this "better than 100-octane fuel," Holliday declared, is expected to near the 500,000-barrels-a-day mark by the middle of next summer, compared with a nation production of 40,000 barrels when the country entered the war.

Navy Lieut. E. T. Ullstrum, assisting in the Sohio construction project here and representing both the Army and Navy at the meeting, said both the "Army and Navy find themselves short of aviation gasoline."

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 — Illness has been effecting some late changes in network programs today. Bert Lahr is listed for St. Johnny Puts Out the Lights at 7:30 in place of Adventures of Maisie, and Jane Cowl's Father of the Girl at 10:30 instead.

Mary Livingstone is expected back next Sunday with husband Jack Benny after missing an NBC broadcast in which her place was taken by Barbara Stanwyck.

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, who also is chairman of the Democratic national committee, has been scheduled for a CBS talk tonight on "Voting in Wartime."

Condition of Girl Gun Victim Still Serious

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Nov. 30—Still serious was the report today on the condition of Ann, 7-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William J. Humphrey, although a successful operation at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, Monday, removed a small portion of her liver punctured by a revolver bullet accidentally discharged from a gun which her 10-year-old brother, William Jr., was cleaning.

The bullet passed through the girl's abdomen, and out of her back, puncturing her liver but missing the bowels, a fact which adds to her chances for recovery.

The accident occurred in the living room of the Humphrey home on Henderson avenue. The boy was sitting on the davenport cleaning the revolver from which he thought all the shells had been removed. The one remaining cartridge in the gun was discharged as he turned it over in cleaning, and struck the little girl playing with her dolls across the room.

Mother Says Son Insane When He Killed Boys

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30 — Mrs. Ida Hagert, mother of 18-year-old Henry Hagert, says she thinks "he was insane" when James and Charles Collins were shot to death Aug. 12.

A jury of five men and seven women heard the tearful woman testify yesterday she first believed her son insane when he "tore up our home" early in July.

Hagert is charged with killing the 13-year-old twins in a wooded section of suburban Bay Village after they hitchhiked a ride in his car.

Three alienists testified the youth, who was treated in the psychopathic ward at City Hospital last March, was insane. He pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

American foundries report that 5 per cent of their employes now are women.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"THE CHIEF reason for haste," my father went on, "is the state of window cleaning. The cops are already cracking on those balcony windows, and they have spread a tarpaulin over the platform of one and, concealing two more guards, who will remain there until after your visit. It is a most plausible cleaning camouflage."

"The perfect window cleaners," my father went on, "will leave Redfield's suite shortly after he comes in and will hang just outside the windows of the apartment above him. Thus they will be able to keep an eye on the men under the tarpaulin, and if they dash toward the balcony windows, the men above will join them immediately."

"I have provided for every possible emergency," he said. "But you must be on the alert for any sudden, frightening movement on his part. He will be like something cornered when he hears what you are to tell him. Remember, you have to scream loudly, if you see you cannot use your silencer pistol, or your police whistle. But I imagine you will be able to get at both of them—if you need to do so."

My mental barometer was rapidly falling, and Dicky's hand was tightly clasped over mine that I had had work to keep from wincing again. But my father's next words brought an easing of tension to both of us.

"I really do not think there is any reason for alarm," he said. "Stephen Redfield is eventually a coward."

"But a cornered rat is always dangerous," Dicky struck in.

"That is very true," my father agreed. "But in this case, Margaret's ultimatum to him will leave Redfield a wide choice of courses to act upon. Thus they will be able to keep an eye on the men under the tarpaulin, and if they dash toward the balcony windows, the men above will join them immediately."

Thus they will be able to keep an eye on the men under the tarpaulin, and if they dash toward the balcony windows, the men above will join them immediately."

Arrangements Futile.

"Of course both arrangements will be futile, for Steve can not get at the money. As you know, we have made arrangements with the bank where he put the bonds on a safety deposit box, to refund him the money on some pretext or another until we could swing into action. And Ruth Hayes is now held incommunicado at the hideaway."

I must have winced perceptibly, for he interrupted his narrative to say reassuringly: "There is no cause for worry, Margaret. She is as unaware of the presence of Jack and Katharine there, as they are of her. Katharine knew that I meant to send her down there for a few hours, but she probably thinks that I already have taken the 'Wilderness Woman' to other quarters, and it is just as well that she cherishes that illusion."

"Milner won't have much time to interview Steve," Dicky said, glancing at his watch. "Old Pall told his gifted manager he'd have to be out of the hotel at three o'clock. It's 12 now, and he must have plenty to do getting his traps together and arranging for his living somewhere else."

Spencer Aware.

"I know," my father said, "and that is the reason why I wish Margaret to get down there before he does."

"But how can I?" I queried helplessly. "Milner—"

"Milner will not know Steve is in the hotel until I give the word to have him notified of his errand boy's arrival. Remember, Milner is no longer the autocrat of this hotel. He is only a guest. Steve undoubtedly will telephone him the instant he arrives, and I already have arranged for that contingency. Steve will be told that Milner's phone does not answer, that it is busy, and so forth until your errand to him is completed."

"Is—is he already here?" I asked.

"Not yet," he said. Hanson will notify me the minute he comes in, and is assigned to the balcony suite I have picked up. Two of my men are already passing on those balcony windows, and they have spread a tarpaulin over the platform of one and, concealing two more guards, who will remain there until after your visit. It is a most plausible cleaning camouflage."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Residual Paralysis

With the publication of her book, "And They Shall Walk," published by Dodd Mead, Sister Kenny has plainly set for the issues between her and what she calls "the orthodox" in the medical profession.

The orthodox view is that infantile paralysis is an infectious disease, the virus of which has a particular affinity for those cells in the nervous system located in the spinal cord which send impulses and control muscle movement. The inflammation of and around these cells sometimes puts them out of commission temporarily so that there is a temporary paralysis, and sometimes completely destroys them so that there is a permanent paralysis.

Miss Kenny found by experience that by using hot packs on the affected muscles and by manipulating and moving the limbs from the very earliest period of the disease, muscle spasm is relieved. She believes that by using this method more recoveries take place.

And finally she has come to the conclusion that the disease is located in the muscle alone and that the nervous system or motor nerve cells are not diseased at all.

It is unfortunate that the ever forced herself to the last conclusion. The application of the hot packs and the manipulations early in the disease are forms of physiotherapy that had probably been neglected by the regular profession and which probably do a certain amount of good. But to deny that motor nerve cells are not destroyed by the disease is sheer nonsense and I am not acquainted with any physician who believes that.

In nearly any case of infantile paralysis there is early in the disease a wider extent of paralysis than that which finally remains. As the patient recovers he regains control over group after group of muscles no matter what the treatment. What is left permanently is known as residual paralysis. The Kenny method has no treatment for these residual paralyses, and the resulting deformities, and they occur just as frequently under her treatment as under orthodox treatment.

Her statement that under her treatment 80 per cent of patients recovered while under orthodox treatment "the average percentage of recoveries was 12 per cent" is simply a misstatement. In Alberta, in 1941, Dr. R. G. Huckell reported that of 167 patients treated by orthodox methods during an epidemic 82.2 per cent recovered to the stage where they were practically normal. That is the same as the Kenny percentage of recovery and statistics from other epidemics show that this is the usual recovery rate.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Dec. 1

SPLENDID PROGRESS should be made in this day, according to the lunar and solar aspects. A quick but auspicious move may be responsible for some sort of popularity or public approval, cooperation or mark of esteem. This however may be the best furthered by behind-the-scenes moves or secret pacts, with finesse and subtlety more successful than open or forced issues. In all be wise with contracts or verbal agreements, legal documents with caution.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of outstanding importance, with an opening of some kind in relation to public or community matters. This should bring substantial support, renown or honors. But best results may be attained by dealing with actualities, facts, with an understanding of inner or ideal the values rather than purely factual and surface elements. Sign all writings with precaution, whether business or personal, and beware extravagance.

A child born on this day may be ambitious, public-spirited, although idealistic, and have deep inner vision or intuitions.
